its upward march to new high record prices, December selling for 38,30c, at the peak of the rise. There seemed to be renewed determination of large bull in-terests to force values to the 40 cent level, many bullish spot advices again taking toll among those short of the staple. Although there was considerable realizing at various periods in the ses-sion it was well taken in and at no time was refleted in price movements. Weather also was unfavorable, frost being registered at points in the west-ern belt and in the nothern fringe of Eastern States. The weekly weather report further emphisized the poor crop condition, and, no doubt, contributed to

Business here was very active early but quieted comewhat in later dealings. Without exception the market tone remained getting most attention. There were some small dips in the market, but Southern hedge pressure was never heavy enough to cause more than a temporary drop from the best prices.

Buying was often general, with trade and local commission houses leading. That supporting power reached its zenith in the late afternoon, when December and January contracts sold up more than t cent a pound, or $5 a bale. The weak-ness in many sections of the foreign ex-change market and late heaviness in stocks apparently were without effect. Final bids here on profit taking pressure and high money rates were somewhat off from the best and at net 59 to 59 points up from Mondays finals.

B OSTON, Noc. 5.—According to latest information regarding the proposed auction here by the British Government of Australian wool. Sales will not be held until until after January 1. It is expected that the first consignment will reach here on or about November 18, and it will be at least a month later be-fore the stock will be ready to be offered.
